Case of Moody vs. Ferguson With Jury

MOODY RALLY IS ADDRESSED BY EX-CONGRESSMAN

Gathering Scheduled for Plaza Held At Court House After Rain.

DELIVERS VIGOROUS ATTACK ON FERGUSON

Judge Dewey Lawrence Presides, Urges Heavy Vote in Polls Today.

Plans for a big Moody rally on the Plaza Friday night on the eve of the election were somewhat upset by a heavy rainstorm blowing up a few minutes before the speaking was to have begun. When the rain set in automobiles scurried in every direction and the crowd that had already begun to assemble dispersed.

Some of them under the impression that the speaking would be cancelled entirely returned home. Announcement was made a little later, however, that it would be held at the court house. Those who had not left went to the district court room and listened to an address by ex-congressman James Young of Kaufman.

Judge Dewey Lawrence, who presided made a short introductory address before presenting the speaker.

He regarded it unfortunate, he said, that the Moody campaign committee was unable to carry out its plans for an outdoor meeting. He expressed the belief that the people were never nearer universal accord on a political issue than they were in the present gubernatorial campaign. They were making common cause "to restore the good name and credit of the state and to regain its reputation as the greatest state of the union."

The speaker was then introduced as "Congressman" Young, but he explained that he was a private citizen. He had served in congress, but had voluntarily resigned, he said.

Duty of Voter
He prefaced his address by declaring that it was the duty of every good citizen to cast his vote that free government might be maintained.

"It is a duty that one voter cannot shift to another man's shoulders. He must vote for himself," he declared.

He declared that while in congress he was impressed with the fact that the United States was a wonderful country. When he came back home he was proud of the fact that Texas was the greatest state in the union, and that it was so recognized in congress.

Such men as Oran M. Roberts, John H. Reagan and Charles A. Culberson had given it its great name; but the leadership of today is "a shame and a humiliation," he added.

Not People's Choice
Ferguson was never the choice of the people of Texas, he declared. "He is a creature of circumstances and the beneficiary of false issues. When he was impeached he ought to have been impeached."

The speaker charged him with extravagance in the administration of highway affairs and looseness in the letting of contracts.

The Ferguson men were severely denounced for "the bluff that was made in offering to resign if Moody led the governor one vote."

He declared that she should have quit immediately on the day after the first primary.

The pardoning record of the governor was alluded to and severely criticized. He believed in the pardoning power, but it ought to be very carefully guarded, he said.

We have a wonderful country and a wonderful government, won by bloody revolution; but if it lives and is handed down to our posterity, it must have responsible administration, he declared.

The speaker closed by paying a tribute to Dan Moody who he declared to be a wonderful campaigner. He attributed the young attorney general's attacks on Ferguson and "Fergusonism" to patriotic motives to redeem the good name of the state.

The speaker was greeted with applause at the close of his speech and a good many in the audience came forward to shake his hand.

Preacher Trades House and Lot for Auto and Funeral

GREENVILLE, Tex., Aug. 27. (AP)—Assuring himself of a ride in life as well as death, the Rev. L. W. Humphreys of Greenville, Friday traded his house and lot for an automobile and a funeral.

The agreement between the preacher and the undertaker was that the house and lot were to be exchanged at once for the automobile, and that when Rev. Mr. Humphreys dies the undertaker will bury him free of any further charges.

The trade has been consummated in part by a transfer of the property for the automobile, but the preacher must die to collect the remainder of the bargain.

CANDIDATES IN FINAL APPEAL FOR LARGE VOTE

Moody and Ferguson Both Express Confidence in Last Appeals to Voters.

FORT WORTH, Aug. 27. (AP)—James E. Ferguson was painted by Dan M. Moody here Thursday night as the candidate for the largest political funeral ever held in Texas, declaring that Miriam A. Ferguson would be defeated by more than 500,000 votes in Saturday's election.

Moody answered with ridicule the recent statement of Governor Ferguson that she had "discovered" a plot to relocate the penitentiary in Williamson county.

The speaker did not go into the highway contracts in detail.

Ferguson at Sealey
SEALEY, Aug. 27. (AP)—Former Governor James E. Ferguson spoke here last night to a large audience in the public park. He was introduced by local dignitaries.

An old-time resident and stockman of Austin county, who said that the Ferguson men were the friends of the common people and that was why he was standing by them in this election.

Many of the audience came forward and shook hands with Ferguson following his address, pledging their support to "Ma" in next Saturday's primary. Some assured the speaker that the governor's majority would be much larger in this county Saturday than on July 24.

The speaker advocated the gasoline tax of three cents and a reduction of one-half of the present tax rate on automobiles in order to provide money to keep up the county roads and provide $15 per capita for the schools. He said that Moody was taking the side of the oil companies by opposing the tax.

Moody Issues Statement
AUSTIN, Aug. 27. (AP)—Only a tremendous majority against Fergusonism Saturday will constitute "the rebuke it deserves," states headquarters here for Attorney General Dan Moody, gubernatorial candidate who led over Governor Miriam A. Ferguson by more than 100,000 votes in the first Democratic primary, declared in a pre-election statement made public Thursday night. The people of Texas go to the polls Saturday in the run-off primary and statement said that one of three alternatives before the people was that "they may forever remove from public affairs in Texas the menace constituted by Fergusonism."

The statement warned "friends of responsible government that they must not, upon any consideration, remain away from the polls. Mr. Ferguson's hope lies in apathy among our citizenship."

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27. (AP)—In a statement issued today, the Catholic episcopate announces that the Vatican and the Mexican episcopate are absolutely united in an unyielding front, determined not to give up their firm but pacific efforts to secure religious liberty.

A special committee of the episcopate is engaged in drawing up a petition to which will be appended the signatures of many Catholics of the country for presentation to congress to have the laws relating to religion either rescinded or amended.

As only a few days remain before that body meets, the number of signers, it is pointed out, will not be as great as would have been the case had there been more time, but the episcopate believes that the petition will show that its stand is widely approved.

FOUR TURKS GET DEATH SENTENCE

More Alleged Conspirators Die for Renowned Plot Against Mustapha Kemal.

CONSTANTINOPLE, Aug. 27. (AP)—Four prominent unionists, sentenced to death yesterday by a special court on a charge of conspiring to slay Mustapha Kemal Pasha, president of Turkey, were executed at midnight in the prison yard at Angora.

The executed men were David Bey, former finance minister and a prominent unionist; Dr. Nazim Bey, former minister of education and one of the leaders of the 1906 revolt against the late Sultan Abdul Hamid; Hilmi Bey, a former deputy, and Nail Bey, a former secretary of the Unionist party.

Death Toll In Mine Blast Reaches Forty-four; None Believed to Have Escaped

CLIMER, Pa., Aug. 27. (AP)—The wrecked workings of the Climer mine of the Clearfield Coal corporation tonight had yielded the bodies of forty-one of the forty-four miners who were killed late yesterday by a terrific explosion. Far into the mine picked rescue teams toiled incessantly to penetrate the mass of slate and rocks which formed a tomb for the three missing men. Hope was abandoned that any of them would be found alive and experienced workers estimated it would require several days to extricate their bodies.

Nine bodies recovered today were removed to the temporary morgue, established in a tool shed a mile from the mine mouth. Here they were placed beside the bodies of thirty-two fellow workmen, whose lives were snuffed out by the terrific blast yesterday afternoon.

The condition of the nine bodies led the rescuers to believe that these men were trapped in the very midst of the explosion, for the remains were in such condition that identification was practically impossible. Of the forty-one bodies recovered, only four were without marks of violence. These four fell victims to the deadly after-damp which followed the blast.

Rescuers said they believed the three missing miners were buried under a heavy cave-in, and they thought several days might elapse before the bodies could be dug out.

As the mine yielded up its dead, investigators went to work hoping to determine the cause of the disastrous blast.

SALLISAW, Okla., Aug. 27. (AP)—Perry Chuculate, 33, a deputy sheriff who was injured in a gang battle with bandits believed to belong to the gang that robbed two Covington, Okla., banks Wednesday, died in a Fort Smith, Ark., hospital early tonight. MUSKOGEE, Okla., Aug. 27. BROADWAY PLANS TO GREET TRUDIE

Royal Reception Prepared for American Girl Who First Conquered Channel.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (AP)—Gertrude Ederle's home town took on a festive air today in honor of her home coming from Europe.

"It took Washington to cross the Delaware and Trudie to cross the channel," was the welcome of a steamer, waving over a little dry goods store on Amsterdam avenue, near her dad's butcher shop.

First on the welcoming program was the meeting of the liner Berengaria, with Miss Ederle aboard, at quarantine by the steamboat Macom, carrying the mayor's committee and Miss Ederle's mother. Arrangements were made for the transfer of Miss Ederle and her father from the Berengaria to the Macom for them to proceed to the battery amid cheers, music, the shrill tooting of harbor craft and the shouting of fireboats.

Lower Broadway arranged a characteristic welcome for the queen of swimmers, with a parade and all the fanfare accorded to the nation's most distinguished guests. Mayor Walker had a scroll and a medal for her in a formal presentation at city hall, before a triumphal march uptown of Miss Ederle and her party.

The real home-coming was reserved until Miss Ederle's arrival in Amsterdam avenue, where Judge Levine of General Sessions was designated to deliver an address of welcome and State Senator Bulky to present a silver loving cup.

BANDITS BOLDLY RIFLE JEWELRY SHOP IN LAWTON

Robbery Committed in Broad Day By Five Masked Men Who Made Getaway.

LAWTON, Okla., Aug. 27. (AP)—Five unmasked bandits entered a jewelry store in the heart of the city's business district and robbed show cases, windows and safes of diamonds and other jewelry valued at $50,000, here today.

Two men entered the store while the manager was talking with Frank Richmond, manager of the local street car company, standing near the front door. The bandits ordered them to lie face down on the floor, and then systematically robbed the store.

The robbers rifled the showcases and jewelry boxes and fled, four of them through the back door and one through the front. It was believed they ran to cars parked on a side street.

Only one person encountered any of the invading band on the street. A traveling salesman, attracted from a nearby hotel by the commotion, nearly collided with the bandit who emerged from the front door, and was shoved to one side by a gun.

A few minutes later, motorists reported a large coupe was seen traveling at a high rate of speed north of Lawton on the Fort Sill road.

Several motor cars were crowded off the road by the speeding automobile.

Anti-Tobacco Man Terms Valentino Nicotine Victim

INDIANAPOLIS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Nicotine caused the death of Rudolph Valentino, in the opinion of Charles M. Fillmore, secretary of the No-Tobacco league, who said today that tobacco was a contributory cause of the deaths of three presidents, Enrico Caruso and "many others who today are being suddenly cut off in the midst of promising careers."

"The doctors say Valentino died of ulcers," he continued. "Nicotine produces internal ulcers and cancers. Valentino was constantly portrayed smoking a cigar and pictures of him in private life showed him puffing a pipe. Had Valentino kept his system free of deadly nicotine, no doubt he would be alive today."

AUSTIN, Aug. 27. (AP)—The curtains drew to a close tonight on one of the most unusual gubernatorial races in the history of Texas and the democratic party, when Attorney General Dan Moody and Governor Miriam A. Ferguson offered their final pre-election statements on the eve of the election Saturday.

Tonight, before he went to speak at the last rally, Dan issued the statement that "Jim Ferguson, husband of the governor, stands today on the brink of political oblivion. Tomorrow, his political sun will set forever."

The governor said in her final statement, "a great reaction has occurred in the minds of the people in the last ten days," and that Moody's nomination could have but one result, "embarrassment of democracy of this state."

went to the jury of the people tonight. The jury, composed of more than 800,000 Texas Democrats will begin casting its ballot tomorrow morning.

Governor Ferguson, who made but one address in the run-off campaign issued what was called her "final" statement today. Tonight her husband and adviser, the former governor, James E. Ferguson, made his last address of the campaign at Groesbeck.

Moody closed his campaign with an address at Austin. Each predicted victory.

Both sides have urged repeatedly that the more than 800,000 voters who participated in the July 24, or elimination primary, again go to the polls. Moody then led Governor Ferguson by more than 120,000 votes, but lacked a ma-

DEATH TOTAL FIVE AND MUCH DAMAGE IN COASTAL STORM

Property Damage Estimated Between Five and Ten Millions, Many Missing.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27. (AP)—Estimates of storm damage tonight had mounted until they stood between the $5,000,000 and $10,000,000 mark, as reports continued to come into New Orleans from the devastated area of Wednesday night's hurricane.

The death toll stood at five, although several reports have been received of persons missing in different localities. They, however, were believed to have taken refuge at isolated places, where communications were cut off by shattered telephone and telegraph lines.

The fifth death reported was that of a child who drowned at Sevier. Thirteen fishermen are missing from the colony at Barataria bay, 45 miles below New Orleans. They were on Barataria bay in launches shortly before the storm struck and nothing has been heard from them since.

As lines of communication are restored throughout the southern half of the state, reports of damage to crops and property continue to mount. Fully three fourths of the estimated damage will be borne by farmers, as thousands of acres of sugar cane and corn were flattened by the 100-mile-an-hour wind and many acres of rice were ruined when the tide, whipped by the wind, rose to unusual heights, flooding irrigation canals with salt water.

They did succeed in preventing the barn from catching, but several hogs in the lot between the house and barn were badly burned. Only a little of the furniture could be gotten out of the house.

Longhorns Begin Training Early

SPECIAL TO THE NEWS.

AUSTIN, Texas, Aug. 27.—Coach B. J. Stewart of the University of Texas Longhorns, will begin fall training for the Longhorns on September 10, when he is expecting about 40 men to report. The first three or four days will consist of light work to condition the men, Stewart said, and will follow various forms of exercises and learning to handle the ball, punting, passing, sprinting, and the like. Scrimmage does not begin until a week or ten days after training starts.

After the first few workouts at scrimmage, the Longhorns will be pushed hard, as the same on September 25, with the Oklahoma Southwest Teachers college is the hardest first game the Steers have faced in years, Coach Stewart declared.

The Longhorn coach is urging that a larger number of athletes report for fall training. Despite the size of the enrollment of the University, fewer men report for football training when the seasons open than in smaller schools.

Stewart said.

Coach Stewart is particularly pleased with the addition of Milton Kelly as the new trainer for the Longhorns. Kelly is from the University of Kansas.

light from Washington to the Philadelphia navy yard when the accident occurred. He was about to land when the plane suddenly nosed into three and a half feet of shallow water. The commander and Schultz were plucked in the wreckage but the latter managed to free himself. It was some time before Rodgers was freed. When he was taken to the hospital it was given out that he suffered a broken leg and other injuries and that his condition was good. Later it was announced that he died at 5 p. m.

It was some time before the announcement was made and information as to the cause of death was withheld. Just before word of his death was given out, it became known that the commander was more seriously injured than first supposed, and was suffering from great shock. It was stated that he was in the wrecked plane fifty minutes before he could be released.

Some officers and men at the yard had been watching the plane as it circled and descended, ready for the final landing sweep to the ground. The plane was pointed towards the field and descended rapidly, but still about thirty feet above the surface of the river, a hundred feet from the shore, when its nose was seen to tilt downward towards the water and then dive into the river.

Commander Rodgers and Schultz, strapped to their seats, were unable to do anything to save themselves. The river where they struck is shallow and the plane landed in about three and a half feet of water. The forward end of the fuselage struck the muddy bottom of the river.

The shock of the dive broke off the propeller and the plane stuck tail up in the mud and water. The water came over the cockpit but Commander Rodgers' head and shoulders remained above it.

Schultz, the mechanic, managed to cut the straps that held him and went to his commander's aid, though bruised and gashed by jagged bits of debris.

Details of sailors pushed into the river. First efforts to lift the commander out of the wreckage were unavailing.

"Easy boys," he said, as they tried to lift him. "I'm fast somewhere, go easy."

It was found that his left leg was pinned in the wreckage, and he was finally freed by the use of tools in prying open parts of the plane.

SELECTION OF GOVERNOR

Majority required for nomination. Moody has conducted a very strenuous campaign in the past two weeks. Governor Ferguson was prevented from speaking by hay-fever, but her husband for the past week has spoken daily. In addition the governor, through statements given newsmen at the capital has presented her own side.

Campaign Issues

The Ferguson campaign has been conducted with the Ku Klux Klan as an issue, favoring a three-cent tax per gallon on gasoline, and explaining that the reason the governor did not resign after the first primary, as she said she would in a challenge to Moody to resign his office under certain conditions, was that Moody did not accept the challenge directly, and developments at and immediately succeeding the first primary caused her to believe if Moody was given an unopposed field it would be a Ku Klux Klan victory. A direct appeal was made by the Ferguson for the Catholic and Jewish votes.

Moody, on the other hand, declared the Klan has not been an issue since Governor Ferguson was elected two years ago, and the real issue was "Fergusonism" and whether the people wished the Ferguson to continue in power.

Underneath this effort by Ferguson to get votes for his wife, has been an intimation of possible court action to keep Moody's name off the general election ballot if Moody is successful tomorrow. Ferguson has charged there were election frauds in the first primary which he intends to have investigated, and has declared that the Republicans may, if they wish, keep Moody's name off the general election ballot, and thus place Col. H. H. Haines, the Republican nominee for governor, in the executive office.

In addition to the governor's race, nominees for attorney general, state treasurer, and one justice of the court of civil appeals in the eleventh district will be chosen tomorrow. Some nominees for the state legislature will be named.

The candidates for attorney general are James V. Allred and Claude Pollard; for treasurer, J. R. Ball and W. Gregory Hatcher; incumbent for Associate Justice, court of civil appeals, eleventh district, George L. Davenport and J. E. Hickman.

There are 252 counties in the state and 251 of them were reported to the Texas Election Bureau today as having prepared to open voting booths. In past run-off primaries some counties have not participated because of lack of interest. The polls open at 8 a. m. and close at 7 p. m.

Home Benefit Is First Company

To Pay As Usual

Paris, Texas, Route No. 1, August 15th, 1926.

W. C. Francis, Sec-Treas., Home Benefit Association, "A Local Mutual Aid."

Paris, Texas.

Dear Sir:

Allow me to thank you upon the most extraordinary service you rendered in the settlement of the $2,000.00 life insurance policy of my deceased husband, John H. Denny.

With the nice floral offering, which you sent before the funeral, was attached a note from you telling me that the insurance money was ready and I had the satisfaction of knowing that I had immediate cash subject to my check for any and all expenses. In this connection I wish to state that Mr. Denny had three other life insurance policies but the Home Benefit policies were the only ones on which I could realize cash before the funeral.

It is also true, that the Home Benefit Insurance cost a great deal less than any other life insurance which he carried. I like the Home Benefit insurance because it costs less per year, and even the small cost is divided into six or more payments coming at different times during the year.

Trusting that more and more people will come to realize the truth in the above statements, I remain,

Yours truly,

MRS. MARY A. DENNY, Beneficiary.

NEW YORK, Aug. 27. (P)—

Early advance in the cotton market today met a renewal of realizing and after selling at 17.99 early, December reacted to 17.78, closing at that figure.

The opening was firm at an advance of 9 to 18 points. Active position lost its intensity and was fastening out of the eastern belt no doubt tended to offset the southwestern shower predictions and while there was no improvement in private crop advice, the weather news was evidently considered a little more favorable on the average.

Aside from this, the failure of reiterated reports of crop deterioration to bring in more fresh buying at 18 cents or above, probably increased a disposition to take profits on long cotton for over the week and the afternoon market was rather unsettled.

Buying orders came in on the seaboard and there were little flurries of covering, but the bulges met offerings from one source or another, and the lowest prices of the day were reached in late trading. October sold off to 17.80 and January to 17.80. The market closed at the lowest of the day.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 27. (P)—

The cotton market opened firm here today in sympathy with high- or Liverpool cables than due. The advance of the English market was attributed to American buying there and to reduction of 25 per cent in the estimates of the Egyptian crop.

The market eased off in the second hour. Selling was mainly by ring traders who cling to the theory that reaction is due. The market later rallied about 10 points from the lows on reports of cold rain for Texas and an Indian in insect activity. Hester's pointer to mill takings was bullish, being 192,000 to 202,000 bales against only 126,000 last year.

Following the rally around mid-session on Texas rains the market again eased off on selling by professional traders. The crippled telegraph service due to storm are said to be largely responsible for the dearth of supporting orders.

She stock had to be disposed of generally in jack pots, being but three or four cars of cows on the market. Best heavy cows $5.00, one loads $3.75 to $4.45 with market for the stock barely steady.

Calves steady at same figures as on Thursday—$9.50 to $10.75 for light veals, $7.50 to $8.25 for heavy calves.

Two cars hogs arrived from Kansas, two cars stockers from Kansas City. The market advanced 15 to 25 cents. Top hogs in truck division $14.50, heavy hogs $13.50.

JUDGE BEAUCHAMP IS ROTARY SPEAKER

Talk on Government in Business and Musical Numbers Enjoyed At Luncheon.

Judge T. L. Beauchamp was the speaker at Friday's luncheon of the Rotary club at the Gibraltar and his topic was "Government in Business." His chief theme being a discussion of monopolies or combinations in restraint of trade and their control through a constitutional clause.

J. D. Gee and M. S. Rowen had charge of the program for the day and in addition to Judge Beauchamp's talk, the program included renditions of the familiar songs, "Darling Nelly Gray" and "Annie Laurie," sung by Mrs. Bud Morgan, accompanied on the piano by Mrs. J. I. Norman, which were roundly applauded.

Guy Caldwell and C. P. Johnson were named to arrange the program for the next meeting.

Guests for the day included O. L. Gregory of Rogers, Ark., and Paris, James A. Wear of Ballinger, T. D. Hunt, a newcomer to the city who is opening Hunt's dry goods store here, and A. C. Maekin.

Arthur Caddell, who had the honor in the absence of President Norment, spoke briefly, urging the members as individuals to give their support to the movement for the establishment of a public library for the city.

Mr. Beauchamp in his talk gave a brief historical sketch of the steps by which the United States as a nation were evolved from the original confederation, the formulation of the constitution with regulation of commerce as a primary consideration.

While the authors of the constitution could never have conceived the present-day situations in world commerce, he said, nor even those of this country, nevertheless, the clause they inserted in the document relating to the illegality of combinations in restraint of trade, has served its purpose and has been used time and again to bring injunctions against large corporations, on the charge of monopoly.

NEW BRIDGE TO TURN MORE COTTON HERE

A local cotton buyer declared Friday that the opening of the free bridge at Arthur City, which will be completed just about the time the cotton picking and marketing will be well under way, will bring a lot of Oklahoma cotton to Paris.

There has always been some cotton brought in by the farmers from near the river on the other side in wagons who formerly lived in Lamar county, and who came here by preference to sell their crop and do their trading.

When the bridge is opened the Paris trade from Oklahoma will be largely extended by cotton being brought in on trucks, it was declared.

Under the railroad regulations cotton cannot be carried past one compress to be located at one compress, but must stop at the nearest compress.

The regulation does not affect cotton hauled on trucks. It can be hauled a hundred miles or more on a truck anywhere the shipper pleases to haul it, and with no bridge tolls to pay the farmer can haul his cotton from across the river to Paris as easily as from anywhere in Lamar county.

The merchants and business men of Paris, he declared, could assist the local cotton firms in building up a big cotton trade with southwestern Oklahoma.

CHRISTIAN CHURCH LEADERS TO SPEAK

Two-County Educational Program Will Center At First Christian Sunday.

The Christian churches of Lamar and Red River counties are observing Sunday as "First Christian Sunday." The various religious bodies are holding their respective services at 11 a. m. and 7:45 p. m. The two junior colleges maintained by the Christian churches in Texas, Carr-Burdette college for girls, at Sherman, Texas, and Randolph College, a co-educational institution, at Cisco.

Wm. H. Bonham, of Bonham, will fill the pulpit of the First Christian church here Sunday morning. He is president of the board of trustees of Carr-Burdette, and is well known throughout north Texas as a Christian leader.

On Sunday evening, a big two-county educational rally is to be held at the church, Rayton, Midway, Burdick, Detroit, and Charleville Christian churches participating. Large delegations are expected from each of these churches. The opening song service of the evening will be led by the united choirs of the various churches represented. A special duet will be rendered by Mrs. Hoyt Braselton and Rev. J. Leslie Fennell.

A short address of welcome to the out-of-town guests will be made by Hugh Palmer, chairman of the board of the local church. Three short talks by prominent educators of the brotherhood will be included. The first speaker will be Dr. W. P. King, president of Carr-Burdette, who will use as his subject, "The Christian Junior College." He will be followed by Rev. Louis S. Cupp of Kansas City, Mo., speaking on "The Texas Junior College Crusade," and Stanton Allen of Lincoln, Neb., state director of the Texas Junior College crusade, will conclude by making "An Appeal to Loyalty and Sacrifice." Rev. J. Leslie Fennell, pastor of the local church, will make a short response at the conclusion of these talks.

After the meeting, an hour of fellowship will be enjoyed on the lawn of the church, and everyone will be served with ice cream and cake.

The meeting will continue through next Wednesday night and services will be held each day at 10:30 a. m. and 7:45 p. m.

EVANGEL REFUSED SIGHT OF BODIES OF SUSPECTS

LONG BEACH, Cal., Aug. 27. (AP)—Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson and her mother today were denied permission to view the bodies of James Law and William Miller at a Wilmington mortuary until after the autopsy tomorrow. The two men who, with Russell A. McKinley, a blind lawyer, were drowned last night when their automobile overturned in a water-filled ditch were regarded by the evangelist as possibly being implicated in her asserted kidnapping last May.

HALL-MILLS MYSTERY CARD HAS REAPPEARED

SOMERVILLE, N. J., Aug. 27.—A card which was on the body of the Rev. Edward W. Hall, when it was found with that of his choir singer, Mrs. Eleanor Mills, Sept. 16, 1922, is in the possession of the state and finger prints on it correspond to those of one of three people held for the murder, according to special prosecutor Alexander Simpson. He announced the finding of the card, which had been reported missing, at a hearing before Justice Parker this morning for the admission to bail of Henry Carpenter and Willie Stevens, held for the murders.

CHOCTAW COTTON CROP GIVEN LARGE ESTIMATE

Special to The News. HUGO, Okla., Aug. 27.—Choctaw county's cotton output is likely to be much larger than has been expected for some time, according to observers who made trips to different parts of the county.

At least 15,000 bales is the prediction of one who has made investigations in separated areas. Cotton is fruiting more heavily than for some time. The size of the crop will likely depend on the amount of damage by insect pests.

At the Plaza Today
Are movies true to life? Don't you often go to a picture and see something on the screen, then come home and say, "Oh, that couldn't possibly happen?" Sure you do! But Ruth Dwyer, the pretty blonde ingenue who figures prominently with Johnny Hines in the new First National picture, "The Brown Derby," now showing at the Plaza theatre, says right out loud that the movies are true to life. Listen to Ruth:

"We had spent the day at the studio filming scenes where Johnny Hines enters the home of the girl he marries later in the picture. The doorbell rings. I answer it, and there stands Johnny, wearing his brown derby of course."

"Who are you?" I ask, via the subtitle.

"A plumber," replies Johnny Hines.

"Well, that was that! Shortly after I got home from the studio that night there was a ring at the door. I answered it, and a man stood there."

"I'm the plumber, Miss," he said.

Now doesn't that go to show that the movies are just packed and jammed with realism the way life is? Only a trifling example, of course. But it proves something anyway.

Plaza Monday and Tuesday
One of the most promising of the new crop of photoplays to be shown locally next week is "Padlocked," Paramount's powerful drama of contemporary American life which makes its debut at the Plaza Monday for a two-day run.

This screen play not only boasts the authorship of Rex Beach, one of America's most gifted writers of fiction, but the flawless direction of Allan Dwan and the meritorious action of Lois Moran, Louise Dresser and Noah Beery—three factors that make it well worth seeing.

Its theme deals with the conflict between the strong individualism of our growing youth and the narrow conventionalism of the older folk.

The action centers around a typical family, the father of which is a stern, Puritanical reformer, whose efforts at oppression and repression bring about his wife's accidental death and force his daughter to run away from home.

The girl seeks a career on Broadway and becomes a dancer in a fashionable cabaret patronized by the wealthy society set. Dramatic complications pile up with startling rapidity, but eventually love and happiness triumph.

MEXICAN CHURCH WILL NOT YIELD

Episcopate in Formal Statement Says Churches Will Not Be Re-opened.

MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27. (AP)—The Catholic episcopate in a written statement today announces it will wait and work for months, or years if necessary, for settlement of the situation arising out of the new religious regulations promulgated by the government.

It declares that church services will not be resumed until religious laws are amended or repealed and has instructed all Catholics not to permit a schism within the ranks.

Opposes Change
MEXICO CITY, Aug. 27. (AP)—According to El Universal, Secretary of the Interior Tejada says he is opposed to any change of the religious clauses of the constitution which have brought about the present discord between the Catholic church and the government and which the church purposes to endeavor to have amended or repealed by congress.

The secretary said an amendment of the religious section of the constitution would "throw Mexico back to the dark ages preceding the reform wars and would arouse new combats over the religious question."

The committee of the Catholic episcopate today was still studying various aspects of the situation and going through the details of the memorial which is to be presented to congress seeking a change in the religious clauses.

STATE ASKS TRIAL IN OSAGE SLAYING

Hale and Ramsey Wanted for Killing of Fairfax Rancher.

PAWBUKA, Okla., Aug. 27. (AP)—C. K. Templeton, county attorney of Osage county, stated this afternoon that he would ask the federal officers to return W. K. Hale and John Ramsey to this county for trial on charges of murder connected with the death of W. E. Smith of Fairfax.

The district court docket issued today shows the case of Hale and Ramsey to be set for September 21.

A federal trial of the two men on a charge of killing Henry Roan, an Osage Indian, ended yesterday in Guthrie when the jury disagreed and was dismissed.

GUTHRIE, Okla., Aug. 27. (AP)—Controversy continued today over the integrity of the federal court jury that was dismissed yesterday after disagreeing upon a verdict in the murder trial of W. K. Hale and John Ramsey, charged with killing an Osage Indian.

Praise of the jury personnel today by W. S. Hamilton of Pawhuska, defense attorney, brought a recitation from Roy St. Lewis, district attorney, of his belief that some members of the jury were not "right."

He "told" said the jurors "served unflinchingly for 31 days during the hottest, most uncomfortable days of the summer," and that they were "wholly divided on the question of the innocence or guilt of the defendants."

Lewis' charge that friends of Hale on the jury had prevented it from reaching a verdict was termed by Hamilton "the reward offered by a disappointed attorney to an honest jury."

In Oklahoma City, Lewis said government attorneys had received letters and telephone calls that supported his charges.

"There was too much studied indifference to government testimony," Lewis said. "Too many whisperings of a conspiracy to defeat justice and too many letters received by federal officers giving alleged information of a packed jury."

PITTSBURG, Pa., Aug. 27. (AP)—Spurred on by posting a $1,000 reward, police investigating the bombing of the Farmers' Deposit Savings bank today redoubled their efforts to identify the bomber whose body lies in the city morgue.

The reward was offered by the Pittsburgh Gazette-Times, for information leading to identification of the man, who, on Tuesday, set off the bomb which brought death to himself and to a special policeman. More than a score of others were injured, while a portion of the banking room was wrecked.

REVIVAL MEETINGS ARE STILL IN PROGRESS
Although the season for holding revival meetings in the country is nearing its end, there are several still in progress in different localities.

At Mount Vernon, Rev. J. W. Milligan is conducting an interesting meeting, and a mile west of Mount Vernon, a holiness meeting is under way. At Tipton, a meeting is being conducted under the auspices of the Methodist church.

The three revivals are being held within a radius of three or four miles, and all three of them are being pretty well attended at night. The men are too busy threshing oats and harvesting hay to turn out during the day.

VISITING PREACHERS TO HOLD SUNDAY SERVICES
Rev. H. L. Marler and wife of McAlester, Okla., will arrive today to be the guests of Rev. and Mrs. W. M. Wright. Mr. Marler comes as a prospective educational director of the First Baptist church.

In the absence of the pastor, who is holding a revival meeting at Powderly, Mr. Marler will occupy the pulpit at both the morning and evening hours.

REV. LOUIS CUPP WILL SPEAK AT BLANDSTOWN
The Bible school services at Blandstown will be held at 2:30 Sunday afternoon and will be followed by an address by Rev. Louis P. Cupp. "Mr. Cupp is reputed to be a speaker of unusual ability, and Blandstown citizens should attend in great numbers. All members of the Blandstown church are invited and urged to attend the great service at the First Christian church in Paris Sunday night at 7:45," says Rev. J. Leslie Fennell, minister.

MEETING AT MT. TABOR TO CONTINUE TOMORROW
The meeting held at Mt. Tabor, by Rev. Mr. King of Dallas, is drawing large crowds from nearby places, and his sermons are causing much comment.

The large tabernacle is well lighted and there are seats enough for the crowds which attend. Congregational singing is one of the features of this meeting which is to continue through the morning service on Sunday.

VISITOR TO SPEAK TO CLOVER LEAF CLASS
A distinguished visitor in Paris Sunday, and Rev. J. Leslie Fennell, has prevailed upon him to address the Clover Leaf class at First Christian church. The secretary asks that every member be present.

THE FINAL ANALYSIS

The curtain will be rung down today on a political drama that has raged in Texas for two years. Today the opposing gubernatorial candidates face the mandate of the people that only could decide the issue that developed with the ascendancy of Dan Moody in Texas governmental affairs. But the issue goes back farther than that.

The Fergusons have wanted, so they said, to hear the voice of the people in a decisive way on other issues. Dan Moody in accepting the Ferguson challenge has similarly submitted his qualifications as opposed to "Fergusonism" to the popular vote.

The issue today goes behind "Fergusonism versus Moodyism"; it has for its roots the question of whether the people wanted to have the legislature
pass the amnesty bill, which restored James E.
Ferguson's political rights, and also whether they favored the Ferguson pardon policy. All these will figure in the vote today.

For this reason the vote should be large and decisive as there is only one issue at bar. There is no distracting influence to thwart the intent of the voter. The issue is as clear cut as it possibly could be.

For the last time, perhaps, the people will have one real opportunity to say whether they want James E. Ferguson and his wife to have a part in the governmental affairs in Texas or whether they want a new era of statesmanship to guide the destinies of the state.

Mr. Ferguson himself declares that the only exigency that can circumvent a free expression of opinion at the polls is the size of the vote itself and the weather. Whether it rains or not, let every qualified voter go to the ballot box and render the final verdict, so unmistakably that the issue will never be a question again in Texas.

WAS SOLOMON WISE?

SOLOMON has always been advertised as a very wise man, but if the history of his life and that of his son, Rehoboam, is correct, they wrecked their power and their people by excessive taxation.

Citizens in practically every city, county and state in the United States are facing much the same problem as did the people under Solomon.
Enormous expenditures are being made for all kinds of public undertakings. All of these taxes are added to the cost of living through increased prices and rents. The ultimate consumer and day laborer cannot pass the taxes on to the other fellow. They pay them all.

Taxes and governments have wrecked more governments and impoverished more nations than all the wars of history. At the height of our prosperity, is a good time for us to check up on our debt and tax situation. The family that spends more than it can afford, is headed for trouble, and the nation which overloads the tax payments, is following the same path.

ELECTRIC LOCOMOTIVES

THE Pennsylvania railroad is constructing thirteen of the most powerful electric locomotives ever built. They will be equipped with four motors, having a combined capacity of 3,640 horsepower, and capable of hauling a sixteen-car Pullman train at a speed of 75 miles an hour or a train of 100 loaded freight cars at a speed of 35 miles an hour. The electric locomotive may displace the steam locomotive in due time, but engineers with vision are moving slowly in that direction because of the liability of some other more economical power system being developed. Everything seems possible these days.

ELECTRICITY ON FARMS

DISCUSSING "Electricity on the Farm" the Public Ownership League says farmers must have electric power at cost and points out five ways in which such a result can be accomplished. These are municipal service, co-operative public ownership, rural power districts, state ownership and federal power systems. And it states that, for details regarding any one of these tremendous possibilities in this field, interested parties are referred to the Public Ownership League of America with headquarters in Chicago. Electric power at cost will revolutionize conditions on the farm and restore American agriculture to its proper place in social progress and prosperity.

WORLD TOPICS

VALENTINO AND ELIOT

From the Temple Telegram:
FROM the watchtower of public opinion it is easily observed that Valentino in death is attracting much more publicity and a greater outpouring of sympathy than the beloved educator and "grand old man" of Harvard, Dr. Charles W.

Eliot, who also passed into his eternal sleep just a day before the end came to the brilliant young motion picture star.

The life of Valentino was fast and spectacular. He loved excitement. That of Dr. Eliot was quiet and thoughtful. He loved serenity.

The ideals and purposes of these two men were almost as widely separated as the poles, yet
each was a brilliant success in his chosen field.
Valentino died at the height of his popularity.
Eliot was in his 93rd year. Valentino's rise to fame was meteoric. That of Eliot was slowly up the substantial stairs of clear thinking and clean living.

Our so-called highbrow element—very necessary for the progress of civilization where a few men are needed to throw their brain-power into the solution of scientific and cultural problems—may feel disappointed in that thousands crowd about the bier of Valentino to view his body in death whereas only hundreds apparently are sorrowed in the passing of the refined, cultured educator.

But there is no need of this.
Consider the avenues through which each man attained his fame.

Valentino's audience was composed of tens of millions—an audience that filled every motion picture theatre throughout the world.

Eliot's audience was composed only of hundreds—thoughtful men and women with a purpose in life who liked to frequent the libraries of the land.

Libraries are not so thick as motion picture theatres.

You go to libraries to study—to worry, as it were over your lack of information and try to acquire ideas and ideals that will be of help to you and the rest of the world.

You go to motion picture theatres to be amused—to forget your troubles and your sorrow, and if it's a good picture the rest of the world
may go hang.

No wonder, then, that Valentino has millions of admirers and worshippers—thousands to pass
his bier in mourning.

No wonder that Eliot in death is almost forgot.

If a moral is to be drawn let educators everywhere ponder seriously the possibilities of the motion picture as a means of shaping the thoughts and ideals, not only of the school children, but of the rest of humanity as well.

Valentino on the screen catered to millions—
the surging masses who make up the world.

Eliot in his study had to be content with company with a mere handful of thinking men and women.

In our problems of school reform let us think seriously of the potential power of visual education.

The Methodists now say that if Europe will only stop drinking, it can easily pay its debt to America. This word, we feel sure, will go far to restore our lost popularity with the European masses.—The New Yorker.

Engineers claim to have discovered a method of producing iron by subjecting the ore to electric treatment. If this proves successful it will prevent an annual loss of many millions of tons of steel because of rust.

"What Germany needs is Prohibition," says a New York surgeon. Well, America has a lot of it she isn't using just now.—Punch.

We'll bet some of the editorials on Robert T.

apparently, for our great men's sons to follow in their footsteps, make young Theodore Roosevelt mad.—Columbus Ohio State Journal.

As we continue our deep study of our international relations in this grave crisis, the question sometimes seems to simmer down to this. Shall we cancel the debts or just not get the money?—

It seems that Illinois and Pennsylvania have ing the best spender.—Dallas News.

WHAT OTHERS SAY

DISARMAMENT IS SURE, BUT IT WILL BE LONG TIME COMING

B Y LORD CECIL
Secretary of the League of Nations in an interview trying to abolish war by persuading the nations to disarm we are dealing with habits and usages which are as old as history. We can succeed in our task only if we remember that success will necessarily be slow.

At present we are on the outer fringes of our problem. The preliminary commission of the League of Nations is at work on the technical aspects of armaments and we may have an interim report from them at Geneva in September. Their task is purely an exploratory one. They can question Governments and draw up recommendations to be submitted to a conference later on, but anything more is outside their field. The political elements which condition disarmament, the elements of national security and national finance, are, of course, utterly beyond their scope.

We have already made a start in the direction of disarmament in the Washington treaty on the limitation of naval armaments. It is true that that treaty limited the construction only of battleships and aircraft carriers, but that it gave us
this definite beginning was promising, most promising.

What we are doing now at Geneva is to make a beginning in the more difficult field of land and air armaments. It will take a long time to get results. The first disarmament treaty may be a very modest one, but there is not the slightest doubt in my mind that eventually the nations will agree to reduce their armaments to those required purely for police purposes.

The tremendous horror of the last war, the knowledge that the next war will be worse, and the growing determination of the Christian churches to assure our ultimate success. The churches have always been opposed to war. They have never been more determined than they are today that war must cease. Christianity will sooner or later abolish war. What is happening now is that we are at last coming to grips with the problem of war. We are only beginning our real task.
Patience as well as determination is necessary in the long and intricate task which lies ahead of us.

He Must Have Picked the Wrong Job

ANDREW AND IMOGENE

By Roe Fulkerson

"I wish autumn would come!"
Imogene hitched her chair a bit closer to the direct draught of the fan.

"Summer time is the only time!"
Andrew announced with conviction. "Whoever heard of going out into the garden and digging a can full of worms and going fishing in the winter time?"

"Digging worms is not my idea of a good time," replied his wife.
"But think of all the nice things which happen in summer. White flannel trousers and picnics. June brides and July brides, and nice furniture store windows put there to remind folks that two must live cheaper than one if they are going to live at all."

"June is the bridal month. All through June, Jacks are wild, hearts are trumps and a single pair wins every pot. Of course if you already have a full house you do not have to come into the pot
but generally do."

"I love July, too. It is wonderful to see people struggling to maintain a safe and sane Fourth and keep small boys from enjoying themselves by substituting sparklers for cannon crackers."

"Summer is the time we raise things. If there were no summers there would be nothing to eat. We raise all the things we eat in the winter during the summer."

"Statistics show that families, salaries, bobbed-tailed flushes and checks and elevators get raised more than anything else. Two years ago women got into the statistics by the number of times they raised their skirts in crossing puddles. They have been thrown out of the contest now for professionalism. No woman ever raises a skirt any more no matter how wet the sidewalk. She might have to, crossing a river,
but not a street."

"I am worried. I wish you wouldn't talk so much!" cried Imogene impatiently.

"I was just keeping in practice," explained Andrew. "I wasn't saying anything."

"I know," she replied, "you rarely do, but I am worried about a fur coat."

"Huh?" said Andrew. "With the thermometer at ninety you worry about a fur coat? Why don't you worry about an iceberg drifting down the street and hitting the house? Why don't you fuss about a snowstorm? This is no weather to worry about fur coats!"

"But the August fur sales are on," explained Imogene. "I can buy a fur coat for one-third less if I get it now, than if I wait until the season is on. I can trade in my old coat for something if I buy at this time. If I get an allowance I will not have to spend more than two hundred and fifty dollars on a new one."

"What kind of one?" asked Andrew.

"That's what is worrying me," explained his wife. "All I can hope to get from you will be about two hundred and fifty dollars. I do not know what kind of a coat
I can get for that, which I would have. I want brown fur of some kind. I do not want a caracul coat. They look like they came off of a half-grown Albrecht dog.
I do not want an imitation seal. I really want a mink and I do not know what to do about it. Life is so difficult and the weather is so warm and you just sit there and talk and talk and never help me a bit. You might at least say something to help me!"

"There is only one thing I could say to help you and that I am not going to say," laughed Andrew.
"Why?" asked Imogene.
"Because it would cost me a thousand bucks to say the one word 'mink.'"

tied and were toed.

The kiss he was dying to steal,
then he stole;
At the feet where he wanted to kneel, then he knole;
And he said, "I fell better than ever I fole."

So they to each other kept clinging and clung,
While Time his swift circuit was winning and wung;
And this was the thing he was bringing and brung:

The man Sally wanted to catch,
and had caught;
That she wanted from others to snatch, and had snought;
Was the one she now liked to scratch, and she scaught.

"Wretch!" he cried, when she threatened to leave him, and left.

"How could you deceive me, as you have done?"
And she answered, "I promised to cleave, and I've cleft."

Middle-Ear Deafness Can Be Relieved.

In describing the tiny bones of the ear, I have spoken of the stirrup bone. It is so called because of its resemblance to the stirrup of an army saddle.

The base or foot-plate of this bone fits into an opening in the skull in such manner that the foot-plate can play to and fro in the opening. In this way the vibrations of the ear-drum are carried through the little bones to the foot-plate of the stirrup bone.
This is made to vibrate and it communicates its movements to the fluid in the inner ear.

This fluid, in turn, is agitated, and the endings of the nerve of hearing which float in the fluid are stimulated. Then the brain takes up the impulse and translates them into meaning sounds.

In a very brief and unscientific way I have told you how the outside vibrations passing through the canal of the ear to the drum are transmitted to the nerve of hearing. Unless the drum and little bones are freely moveable and flexible, the sound waves are not carried as they should be.

Any catarrhal condition which inflames and thickens the lining membrane of the ear will interfere with the vibrations of the drum, bones and inner ear fluid.
Deafness, more or less profound,
is the inevitable result.

Acute catarrh, as acute colds are called, may not permanently impair the hearing. There may be temporary thickening of the nose and ear tissues, but recovery is likely to be complete. You may have a "stopped up" feeling in the ears and feel deaf for a few days.

Repeated and neglected colds are different. There is more and more inflammation of the mucous membrane. Then the condition is known to the doctors as a "chronic catarrh." This means that the tissues of the Eustachian tube and inner ear will become thicker and thicker as time goes on, just as the tissues of the nose become thicker and it becomes difficult to breathe freely.

It is not to be expected that "catarrhal deafness," the form of deafness you get in the way I have just described, can be relieved unless the nasal tissues are first made healthy. The first step in successful treatments is to get the nose back to fairly normal condition.

Then the Eustachian tube—the passageway to the ear—is opened by inflation and other treatment.
Skillful treatment of the middle ear will be applied. Under expert care much can be done to overcome the effects of chronic middle ear catarrh. Early treatment is essential—every month of delay makes it more difficult to improve the deafness.

forming, and the most economical

BEWARE OF THE DOG—U. S. Army Coast Defense experts warn all and sundry that the great naval gun recently erected at Fort MacArthur, on the coast of Southern California, is one of the most effective "war dogs" in the world. Recent tests proved that its bark is nowhere near as dangerous as its bite.

THE SPIRIT OF NEIGHBORLINESS

If You've Ever Borrowed a Cup of Sugar---

WHEN you must borrow a cup of sugar or the use of the telephone or a little gas for the car, why do you unhesitatingly appeal to your neighbor?

COOPER, telephone company, filling station would eventually supply your need. But to meet the immediate contingency you call across the back-yard fence. The sugar--and it's good sugar--is handed over. That's service, prompt, efficient, honest. But there's a certain something more to that little transaction--an indefinable something that can scarcely be described in the printed word or illustrated in a catalog. It's a feeling of mutual understanding and reciprocity, as of one who, having lived among strangers, returns again to his own people; it's the same feeling that inspires this, and our similar messages to you.

It's the Spirit of Neighborliness.

AFTER all we're more than mere merchant and patron. We're neighbors. And if service, prompt, efficient, honest, is essential to true neighborliness--and we believe it is--that's the service that we sincerely offer and promise to you.

Held captive for six days while traveling across six states, Ralph Caltoof, 16, son of the circulation manager of the Miami (Fla.)

last night by leaping from an auto. mobile.

The youth said he was kidnaped
in Miami suburbs last Thursday as he was returning home from a theater. Four men stopped an automobile alongside the curb, jumped out, seized him and pushed him into the rear seat, telling him to keep quiet.

They held him in the automobile as it sped westward, and not until they neared Marshall did he have a chance to escape. He came into town and wired his parents, who sent money for his return. He left Marshall on an early train today for Miami.

Dry Leaders Hold City Hall

As Fortress Against Officials

Because the city hall of Beaumont, Tex., had formerly been Temperance Society property and had been deeded to the city on the understanding that part of its rentals should accrue to the society, Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Carroll, leaders in the Temperance selves therein and issued a defy to the world at large to oust them.

They claim divine guidance for their act. The city hall and the

Chicota Evens Count With Caddel Company in Close Game

Bunched Hits and Blow-up of Caddels Give Chicota Victory; Chicota Out Hit

Jeffries Is Foolish Enough to Meet Crafty Johnson

opportunity before him of holding the title with honor for years and permitting his people to bask in the sunlight of glory he reflected, Johnson proceeded to run wild. His dissipation finally turned public sentiment against him.

WHEN JIM JEFFRIES TOOK THE COUNT

Here's how the wires told the tale of Jim Jeffries' end at Reno, Nev., July 4, 1910, at the hands of Jack Johnson.

Round 15 — They rushed straight into a clinch. Johnson wriggled out of it and hooked a left to the jaw, Jeffries clinching promptly. Getting clear of his man again Johnson whipped three lefts to the jaw and the boiler-maker reeled. The negro realizing that the end was near rushed his man to a point near the ropes, and with a right on the jaw, followed by a left up-percut, he knocked Jeffries down flat upon his back. The white man got up on one knee and took a count of nine. As he struggled up Johnson was on top of him, piling in blow after blow and almost knocking Jeffries out of the ring. This time the referee's count was slower and Jeffries managed to crawl to his feet in a dazed and helpless condition. The time-keeper had counted him out. But nobody heard him. With a chance for a knockout presenting itself Johnson rushed him across the ring, swinging right and left for the head. A hook on the jaw finally tumbled Jeffries in a heap in the corner. Jeffries, game to the end, tried to get his bearings and managed to get upon his feet before the count of ten had been told, when Berger jumped into the ring and ordered Rickard to stop the fight for the purpose of saving Jeffries from a knock-out.

Jeffries was hanging over the ropes with his face toward the crowd, apparently oblivious to his surroundings, when Berger made this move, and as Rickard seemed to hesitate the crowd, satisfied that Johnson was the better man, cried "Stop the fight." Then Rickard ordered the negro to his corner and declared him the winner.

FIRST AMATEUR BALL SERIES IN STATE ARRANGED

North and South Texas to Play Elimination Games for Championship.

SAN ANTONIO, Aug. 15. (P)—For the first time in history, the Texas amateur baseball championship will be decided September 11, 12, in a three-game series.

Although in the past, San Antonio, Dallas and Houston amateurs have met in inter-city series, there has never been an organized system for awarding the baseball title of the state to one of the 175 amateur nines in competition this year.

Who will play in the finals next month remains undecided at present, but it will be North Texas against South Texas. On August 28, three-game series will be started in four cities, the winners nine in Fort Worth playing Wichita Falls, the champions playing Waco.

On September 4, a three-game series will be started in each of two cities to determine the teams which will defend North and South Texas in the finals.

The place of playing the deciding series has not been decided, but probably each of the cities competing will stage one or two games. Arrangements are in charge of W. A. Kirkland of Houston, vice president of the Texas Amateur Athletic association and chairman of its baseball committee.

Palestine-Austin Game Rained Out

AUSTIN, Aug. 27. (P)—The third game of the Texas association championship series between Palestine and Austin was called off today because of rain.

DETECTIVES WILL WATCH PRIMARIES

National Organization Said to Be Keeping Tab on Campaigns in Many States.

MANCHESTER, N. H., Aug. 27. The Manchester Union says today that primary campaigns in various states are being watched by detectives employed by an organization of national scope, devoted to cleaning up political conditions. The organization, while not named, was said to be without partisan purpose. The Union declares that its information is based on dependable authority and names William G. Barbour of the William J. Burns detective agency as head of a group of eighteen detectives operating in New Hampshire.

The detectives have been sent to New Hampshire, according to the Union, "for the express purpose of watching the operations of the candidates in the primary election which comes on September 7, and learning to what extent money is being employed in influencing the result of the election."

"Similar investigations," the article continues, "are in progress in other states where the practice of spending large sums to procure nomination has been in vogue, and the information gleaned will be made public for the guidance of both state legislatures and congress in dealing with the evil of money-bought nominations under the direct primary."

Bunched hits, and a blow-up of the Caddel company in the eighth inning gave the Chicota club yesterday's tall game, the boys from the north end of the county winning by a score of 2 to 1. Aside from the sixth inning yesterday's game was on a par with that of Thursday, as prior to that time the Caddel company had been playing stellar baseball and the issue was in doubt.

The Caddel company outlived their rivals, but were unable to procure but one score on eight safe hits, three of which were fouls, while the Chicota club collected three runs off six hits, a sacrifice fly, and a mix-up on the infield in the eighth that really gave the Chicota club the victory.

Caddels Score First

The Caddel company was first to score, acting as the "visiting" team, and going to bat first. The city leaguers counted their first and only run in the initial inning when, after two were disposed of, Ralston doubled to left and scored when White shot a single into right field. White fouled off a dozen or more balls before he finally connected for a safety that sent Ralston scampering over the platter.

Chicota quickly got that run back, tying it up their half of the first. After Patterson had lifted out to Richey in center, Bub Crawford snacked a double to the left center wall, and Roy Gilliam scored Bub with a one base crack to left.

From that time on until the eighth the nothing doing sign was hung up by both sides. Campbell retired the side in one, two, three, order in the second, while Cox did the same for Chicota. Gordon did set in the second when Richey dropped his line drive to center, but he never got past second.

Johnny Cox started the Caddels' half of the third with a double that carried to the left field wall, but was left stranded at second, Cameron flying out to left, and Cox being forced at third on Richey's hit to J. Gilliam. Ralston's fly to left ended the inning.

Chicota went out in order in their half of the third, while Campbell turned the Caddel company back in order in the fourth. The Chicota's threatened in the fourth, J. Gilliam being safe on

Double Play

In the sixth after one was out, Richey hit to left, but Ralston hit into a double play, J. Gilliam to Crawford to Frierson. This play was made with the smoothness and precision of a professional infield, and was fast in execution.

In the Chicota half of the same inning Bub Crawford led off with a hit and R. Gilliam whiffed. J. Gilliam was thrown out at first by Antoine, and Spears whipped the ball to Stiles in time to nab Crawford at the plate. Another fast play.

After two were out in the Caddel half of the seventh, Spears doubled to left center, but Lindsay ended the inning with a hoist to Gordon in center. Chicota was retired in order in the seventh, while in the Caddel half of the eighth, with two out, Cameron hit over third, the ball taking a bad hop to center, scoring Frierson. Crawford was caught between bases but finally managed to get to third in safety. R. Gilliam flew out to Ralston in left and Crawford scored.

Prierson opened the Chicota half of the eighth with a clean single to left, and Crawford bunted and was safe when Cox threw late to first. Campbell hit to Cox, who tried to make the play at third for Frierson, but no one covered and all hands were safe. Patterson hit to center, scoring Frierson. Crawford was caught between bases but finally managed to get to third in safety. R. Gilliam flew out to Ralston in left and Crawford scored.

The Caddel company made one last bid in the ninth when after Richey had gone out to Patterson in right, Ralston got his second double of the game, a snack that carried to the fence. White flew out to Gordon in center, and Antoine was out on a high bouncer in front of the plate.

Ralston carried off the hitting honors for the Caddel company with two doubles, while Spears, who hit the ball hard each time at bat, also got a two-bagger, along with Johnny Cox. Crawford got the only extra base hit for Chicota, a double in the first inning.

Play Again Sunday

The same clubs play again Sunday, and on this game hinges the county championship. Playing as they have in the last two games there should be a monster crowd on Sunday to see the final and deciding game. The two clubs are about evenly matched and are putting up a hard, clean struggle for the titular honors of the county. They are worthy of the patronage of all sport lovers, and those attending the first two games will tell you that the grade of baseball is surprising.

Louckmiller, who lost to the Caddel company on Thursday will probably be the box artist for Sunday's game, and Johnny Cox will most likely be called upon to tackle the county league champions again on Sunday. This game will be called at 3:30, and judging by the attendance at the two week day games the park will be filled to capacity for Sunday's tilt.

By NORMAN E. BROWN
On the third day of July, 1909, Marvin Hart and Jack Root, two heavyweights, climbed into the ring at Reno, Nev., for a decision fight for the world's heavyweight championship.

Jim Jeffries, holder of the heavyweight crown, was third man in the ring that day. When Hart dropped Root in the twelfth round the referee raised Hart's hand in token of victory and thereupon presented him with the world's championship crown, figuratively at least, to defend against all comers. Jeffries had retired, had ignored unheeded pleas to remain in the game and took this way of passing on the crown.

The following year Tommy Burns won a 20-round decision over Hart and claimed the title. For two years Jack Johnson, later destined to write a sensational black page in pugilistic history, hounded Burns for a match. They finally met in Australia. Burns, in his prime, was the greatest of all heavyweights — combining bulk, twice—against Jack O'Brien and Bill Squires.

Johnson beat Burns in 14 rounds, heavyweights, climbed into the ring at Reno, Nev., for a decision fight for the world's heavyweight championship.

Jeffries Hears Call. Immediately the hue and cry was raised for Jeffries to come out of retirement and bring the title back to the white race. On July 4, 1910, five years after he handed down the title and six years after his last appearance in the ring, Jeffries came out.

He had a peaceful, contented life of comparative ease. Always huge in frame he had taken on weight. Those close to him advised him against heading the public call but by Tex Rickard swung his decision.

There was then at the height of his career. There are those who will tell you that Johnson, in his prime, was the greatest of all heavyweights — combining bulk,
